55. AMERICA WILL MAKE THE RIGHT CHOICE FOR THE WRONG REASON

by Dr. Henderson Ward

When people cast their vote in November for their choice of President, whatever the mass media thinks makes no difference, people will remember where the country was in 2008 and where it is now. This reflection will prompt in particular four vital, and in my view deterministic questions as follows:Is the country better or worse off than it was in 2008?, Are people more safe or less safe than in 2008?, Is America more at peace with itself and the world since 2008? Which candidate inspires hope, trust, compassion, and stability? America will re-elect President Obama in November not because they relish a rosy future with him at the helm leading them into much prosperity but because they fear a Romney presidency will take them back to the dark days of 2008. In America fear always trump optimism. Read More

32. The end of the World By Henry Bechthold

"The end of the world": could it finally be here? In Matthew chapter 25, Jesus spoke of a "midnight cry" that proclaims that He, the Bridegroom, is coming. Most of us have heard the expression, "it's the eleventh hour", which conveys the message that it is getting late and time is beginning to run out. And, many of us have also heard the expression, "it's ten minutes to midnight", which means that it is very late and time is almost gone. I honestly believe that neither of these expressions is adequate to describe how extremely late it is in earth's history right now. I would say that it is "one minute" before midnight. We need to get ready to proclaim that "the Bridegroom, Jesus Christ, is coming". Read more..

34. The Ten Commandments. By Dave Ingram

The ten commandments given to Israel by God in the book of Exodus stand out among many ancient codes of law as a set of governing principles that have stood the test of time. The ten commandments have done more to influence the tenants of government around and societal norms across the globe than any other body of law. A study of the ten commandments can reveal much to modern readers about the way humanity is meant to function in a perfect world. Read more

35. What is Character? By Nancy Wood

... "Watch your thoughts; they become words. Watch your words; they become actions. Watch your actions; they become habits. Watch your habits; they become character. Watch your character; it becomes your destiny." Read more
